

Office Ready Frequently Asked Questions

What is an Office Ready PC?

Answer:

An Office Ready PC is a PC that already has the Microsoft Office 2007 60-day Trial Software preinstalled. A product license can be obtained by purchasing a Medialess License Kit (MLK) which includes the product activation key for the desired Microsoft Office 2007 product.

How do I know I have an Office Ready PC?

Answer:

Office Ready PCs are identified with this Microsoft Office logo  or look for the Microsoft Office Trial Icon on your system's desktop .

What is a Medialess License Kit (MLK)?

Answer:

- An Microsoft Office Medialess License Kit is a product license that includes a Microsoft Office product activation key that will enable you to activate your Office Ready PC with your selected Microsoft Office suite.
- Microsoft Office 2007 Installation Media(CD or DVD) is not provided in the Medialess License Kit (MLK).

How do I install the software?

Answer:

If your PC has Office Ready preinstalled, simply activate your product license using the product key included in your Medialess License Kit (MLK).

I did not receive a CD/DVD with my Microsoft Office 2007 MLK, how do I install/reinstall my software on the same PC?

Answer:

Step 1: Go to www.microsoft.com/office/backup

Step 2: Follow instructions listed here